Russia Offers Additional Oil and LNG to India Amid Supply Concerns

Russia has offered to increase crude oil and LNG supplies to India as the West Asia conflict intensifies and tightens fuel availability. The proposal came during high-level discussions between Indian and Russian officials. This move aims to ensure stable energy supply for India, reduce dependence on disrupted routes like the Strait of Hormuz, and manage rising fuel price volatility. It also strengthens India's energy security by diversifying supply sources during ongoing geopolitical uncertainty.
